

KENJI FUJIMURA

Dr Kenji Fujimura is an internationally-acclaimed pianist, chamber musician, and composer. Awards for his CD recordings include Fanfare USA Colin Clarke's 2015 'Top 5 Want List', Limelight Chamber Music Recording of the Year etc.

Upcoming publications include recordings of the solo piano music by Theodore Dubois, Ernest Guiraud, Leo Livens and others, piano trios by Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, Cliffe Forrester, Harry Waldo Warner, Rosalind Ellicott (Divine Art) Algernon Ashton (Toccata Classics), and Arthur Benjamin, as well as a contribution to the volume Debussy in Context (Cambridge University Press 2020).

Kenji is also a multi-award-winning composer. The 2017-2019 seasons saw Kenji's compositions performed in Romania, Indonesia, New Zealand, Thailand, Singapore, Malaysia, USA, and Australia. Recent international prizes include the Singapore Asian Composers Festival Award, William Lincer Foundation Award (New York), and the VirtualArtists International Composition Award (USA). He was a finalist in the 2019 Cum Laude International Composition Competition (Spain).

Kenji completed his four-year Bachelor of Music degree with Honours in two years at The University of Melbourne, and subsequently pursued postgraduate studies in Melbourne and London, winning prizes and accolades as pianist, fortepianist, and chamber musician.

Kenji has a formidable reputation as a pedagogue; his tertiary-teaching career began while he was still an undergraduate student. Kenji departed his position as Deputy/Acting Head of School, Coordinator of Classical Performance, and Associate Professor of Keyboard at Monash University in December 2018 to become Deputy and Artistic Director at the International Academy of Musical Arts, as well as join the piano and chamber music staff of the Melbourne Conservatorium of Music. He is also an examiner for the Australian Music Examinations Board, co-founder of Trio Anima Mundi, and Patron of the Association of Eisteddfod Societies of Australia. Kenji is frequently invited to serve on music juries and as a consultant, and also maintains a very selective private piano studio.

The 2020 season includes performance in the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra Chamber Music series, Geelong Chamber Music Society series, and with Quartz at the Melbourne Recital Centre.

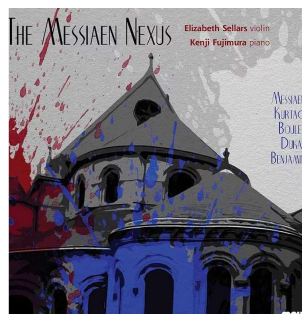

In 2015 he was elected an Associate of the Royal Academy of Music, London, for his 'significant contribution to the music profession'.
